1           I. INTRODUCTION

2           Pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Defendant Evans 3 Adhesive Corporation respectfully submits this memorandum of law in support of its 4 Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint.

5           Plaintiff's Complaint fails to allege facts to support any of its eight causes of actions.
 6 Each claim fails for a common reason: the lack of requisite allegations of a "disability" or 7 a "serious health condition" as those terms are defined by applicable law. Plaintiff 8 unsuccessfully attempts to apply such labels to Plaintiff's claimed Covid-19 test, which 9 ultimately produced a negative result. Still, the result of the test is immaterial to Plaintiff's 10 claims, as a mild illness from Covid-19 constitutes neither a disability nor a serious health 11 condition under applicable law. Thus, Plaintiff cannot rely on conclusory allegations that 12 he was "perceived" as disabled or suffering from a serious health condition in an attempt 13 to prop up his deficient claims. For the reasons set forth below, Defendant respectfully 14 requests that the Court dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint with prejudice and without leave to 15 amend.

16           II. ALLEGED FACTS

17           Plaintiff alleges that he commenced employment as a batch maker for Evans
 18 Adhesive in 2013.<sup>1</sup> (Plaintiff's Complaint, Dkt. 1-1, at ¶ 7.) On January 15, 2021, Plaintiff 19 contacted his supervisor and Evans Adhesive's Human Resources department to inform 20 them that Plaintiff was taking his son for a Covid-19 test. (Id. at ¶ 8).

21           On January 19, 2021, Plaintiff contacted his supervisor to inform the supervisor that 22 Plaintiff was still waiting for the result of his son's Covid-19 test. (Id. at ¶ 9). Plaintiff's 23 supervisor suggested to Plaintiff that Plaintiff might need a Covid-19 test. (Id.) Later that

25           <sup>1</sup> Evans Adhesive denies as untrue many of the factual allegations in Plaintiff's Complaint.
 26 For ease of reading and because the Court must assume all of the facts properly alleged in 27 the Complaint as true solely for purposes this motion to dismiss, Evans Adhesive will not 28 label each and every fact as "alleged" from this point forward, despite Evans Adhesive reserving the right to contest any or all of them if necessary at the appropriate stage.

1 day, Plaintiff received a negative test result from his son's Covid-19 test. (Id.) Plaintiff 2 again contacted his supervisor to inform his supervisor of his son's negative test result, 3 after which Plaintiff's supervisor texted Plaintiff stating: "I need a negative test for you to 4 return. Especially since you have been sick as well." (Id.)

5 On January 20, 2021, Evans Adhesive personnel stated to Plaintiff that he should 6 not appear for work until Plaintiff received a negative Covid-19 test result. (Id. at ¶ 10).
 7 That same day, Plaintiff scheduled a Covid-19 test to take place on January 22, 2021. (Id.)
 8 Plaintiff ultimately took a Covid-19 test on January 22, 2021. (Id. at ¶ 11.)

9 On January 25, 2021, Plaintiff received the result to his Covid-19 test. (Id. at ¶ 12).
 10 The result was negative. (Id.) Plaintiff called Evans Adhesive to inform Evans Adhesive 11 that his Covid-19 test result was negative. (Id.) In response, Evans Adhesive informed 12 Plaintiff that it had terminated Plaintiff's employment. (Id.)

13 On January 13, 2023, filed his lawsuit against Evans Adhesive and various 14 unidentified defendants with the San Bernardino County Superior Court, which Evans
 15 Adhesive removed to this Court. Based on the aforementioned allegations, Plaintiff's 16 lawsuit asserts various claims as follows: violations of the Americans with Disabilities Act 17 ("ADA"); violations of the California Fair Employment and Housing Act, Cal.
 18 Government Code § 12900, et seq. ("FEHA"); violations of the California Family Rights 19 Act ("CFRA"); and wrongful termination in violation of public policy.

20 III. LEGAL STANDARD

21 A motion to dismiss is proper under Rule 12(b)(6) where the pleadings fail to state 22 a claim upon which relief can be granted. Even under the liberal pleading standard of Rule 23 8(a)(2), a plaintiff's "obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment] to relief' 24 requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a 25 cause of action will not do." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (citing 26 Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986)). To survive a motion to dismiss, the 27 Complaint must "contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief 28 that is plausible on its face." See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). A claim is

1 facially plausible when a plaintiff pleads facts that “allow[] the court to draw the reasonable
 2 inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Id. However, “the tenet 3 that a court must accept as true all of the allegations contained in a complaint is inapplicable 4 to legal conclusions.” Id. Thus, “a court considering a motion to dismiss can choose to 5 begin by identifying pleadings that, because they are no more than conclusions, are not 6 entitled to the assumption of truth.” Id.

7 Additionally, in spite of the deference that a court is to pay to any factual allegations 8 made, it is not proper for a court to assume that “the [plaintiff] can prove facts which [he] 9 has not alleged.” Associated General Contractors of California, Inc. v. California State
 10 Council of Carpenters, 459 U.S. 519, 526 (1983). Nor must a court “accept as true 11 allegations that are merely conclusory, unwarranted deductions of fact, or unreasonable 12 inferences.” Sprewell v. Golden State Warriors, 266 F.3d 979, 988 (9th Cir. 2001); Ileto 13 v. Glock Inc., 349 F.3d 1191, 1200 (9th Cir. 2003) (court need not accept as true 14 unreasonable inferences or conclusions of law cast in the form of factual allegations).

15 Dismissal with prejudice is properly entered where any amendment would be an 16 exercise in futility or if the amended complaint would also be subject to dismissal.
 17 Steckman v. Hart Brewing, Inc., 143 F.3d 1293, 1298 (9th Cir. 1998); see also Pepper v.
 18 Gish, 10 F. App’x 474, 475 (9th Cir. 2001) (district court did not err by dismissing without 19 leave to amend where complaint could not be cured by amendment).

20 Here, as set forth below, each cause of action lacks sufficient factual allegations to 21 sustain any of the eight causes of action. Rather, the Complaint improperly relies on legal 22 conclusions and application of labels. Further, the legal deficiencies cannot be cured by 23 amendment including supplemental allegations. Accordingly, the Court should dismiss 24 Plaintiff’s Complaint with prejudice in its entirety and without leave to file an amended 25 pleading.

1           IV. ARGUMENT

2           A. Plaintiff Fails to Plausibly Allege a Disability, as Required
 3           by the FEHA and the ADA.

4           Plaintiff's first through fifth causes of action fail as a matter of law because 5           Plaintiff's Complaint does not plausibly allege Plaintiff suffered from an actual disability, 6           nor does it plausibly allege that Evans Adhesive regarded Plaintiff as having a disability.
 7           Claims under both the FEHA and the ADA require a disability as a necessary element. See 8           Roman v. Hertz Local Edition Corp., No. 20cv2462, 2022 WL 1541865, at *3, 8 (S.D. Cal.
 9           May 16, 2022). Here, Plaintiff's alleged condition—a negative Covid-19 test—does not 10          plausibly constitute a disability under applicable law.

11          To state a claim for disability discrimination under the FEHA, a plaintiff must allege 12          that he: (1) suffered from a disability, or was regarded as suffering from a disability; (2) 13          could perform the essential duties of the job with or without reasonable accommodations; 14          and (3) was subjected to an adverse employment action because of the disability or 15          perceived disability. Wills v. Superior Ct., 195 Cal. App. 4th 143, 159–60 (2011). The 16          FEHA defines a physical disability as a physiological condition that affects one or more 17          body systems. Cal. Govt. Code § 12926(m)(1)(A). Under the FEHA, a disability must 18          also limit a major life activity. Id. § 12926(m)(2)(B). On the other hand, conditions that 19          are mild or that do not limit a major life activity are not disabilities within the meaning of 20          the FEHA. 2 Cal. Code Regs. § 11065(d)(9)(B). “These excluded conditions have little or 21          no residual effects, such as the common cold; seasonal or common influenza.” Id. The 22          California Legislature modeled the FEHA after the ADA. Roman, 2022 WL 1541865, at 23          *7.

24          The ADA similarly requires the existence of a disability, but it sets a higher threshold 25          for a disability by requiring that an impairment “substantially” limit a major life activity.
 26          See 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)(A). To state a claim for disability discrimination under the ADA, 27          a plaintiff must allege that (1) he is disabled; (2) he is qualified for the job (i.e., able to 28          perform the job's essential functions); and (3) he was subjected to an adverse employment

1 action because of his disability. See Lundstrom v. Contra Costa Health Services, No. 22-2 cv-06227, 2022 WL 17330842, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 29, 2022) (citation omitted). The 3 ADA defines a “disability” as a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one 4 or more major life activities, or being regarded as having such an impairment. 42 U.S.C. § 5 12102(1).

6 Plaintiff only alleges that he had taken a Covid-19 test that ultimately produced a 7 negative result. (Dkt 1-1, at ¶ 12) Because this is insufficient to allege a disability, 8 Plaintiff’s first through fifth causes of action fail as a matter of law.

9       1.     Covid-19 is Not a Disability As a Matter of Law.

10 Although Plaintiff did not actually have a Covid-19 infection, a Covid-19 infection
 11 is not a disability. Plaintiff’s allegations are similar to the facts for which the Roman court 12 ruled that Covid-19 does not constitute a disability as a matter of law under FEHA. 2022 13 WL 1541865, at *7. In Roman, the plaintiff actually had a Covid-19 infection. Id. at *2.
 14 The Roman court found that a mild Covid-19 infection, without long-term symptoms that 15 do not resolve, does not fall within either the FEHA’s or the ADA’s definition of a 16 disability. Id. at *6, 8. Also, the Roman court rejected the plaintiff’s argument that the 17 defendant employer’s treatment of the plaintiff transformed a mild Covid-19 infection into 18 a disability. Id. at *8. The court held that application of a Covid-19 policy to a particular 19 employee is not a disability because “an employer’s legal treatment of an individual cannot 20 form the basis of finding for a disability.” Id. Since the plaintiff’s limitation on working 21 was not caused by her alleged illness but rather by the Covid-19 testing policy, the Roman 22 court held the plaintiff’s positive Covid-19 test did not qualify as a disability. Id. at *9.

23 Here, Plaintiff did not have Covid-19. (Dkt. 1-1, at ¶ 12.) Rather, Plaintiff bases his 24 claims on allegations of Evans Adhesive’s treatment of Plaintiff and application of policies
 25 to Plaintiff. Thus, Plaintiff unequivocally has failed to allege a disability as those terms 26 are defined under the FEHA and the ADA.

27 Due to the absence of a disability, Plaintiff’s first through fifth causes of action fail 28 as a matter of law. Thus, the first through fifth causes of action should be dismissed with

1 prejudice. See Lundstrom, 2022 WL 17330842, at *5 (“having COVID-19 is generally
 2 ‘transitory’ and therefore not a disability under the ADA”); see also Roman, 2022 WL 3 1541865, at *10 (claims for disability discrimination, failure to accommodate, failure to 4 engage in interactive process, and other alleged violations of California Government Code 5 § 12940 “require [allegations] that [plaintiff] was disabled according to FEHA”).

6 2. Beyond Conclusory Assertions, Plaintiff Failed to Allege Evans 7 Adhesive Perceived or Regarded Him as Having a Disability.

8 Plaintiff’s allegations based on Evans Adhesive’s purported perception also fail to 9 demonstrate the existence of a disability. “Being perceived of as having COVID-19 is [] 10 not a disability under the ADA.” See Lundstrom, 2022 WL 17330842, at *5 (granting 11 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss plaintiff’s ADA claims based on allegations employer regarded 12 plaintiff as having Covid-19). Also, under the FEHA, in order to allege an employer 13 regarded a plaintiff as having a disability, the plaintiff must allege that he was “regarded 14 or treated by the employer . . . as having, or having had, any physical condition that makes 15 achievement of a major life activity difficult” or that he was “regarded or treated by the 16 employer . . . as having, or having had, a disease, disorder, condition, cosmetic 17 disfigurement, anatomical loss, or health impairment that has no present disabling effect 18 but may become a physical disability.” Cal. Gov. Code § 12926(m)(4), (5). There are no 19 such allegations in the instant lawsuit.

20 The instant lawsuit fails for the same reason the court dismissed ADA claims in 21 Lundstrom. There, the court granted dismissal with prejudice of ADA claims where the 22 plaintiff alleged the employer perceived her as “disabled with a contagious disease” in the 23 form of Covid-19 where she was barred from the workplace due to her unvaccinated status.
 24 2022 WL 17330842, at *5. The Lundstrom court noted that “[f]ederal courts generally 25 agree that a COVID-19 infection is not a disability.” Id. (citations omitted) (emphasis 26 supplied). The Lundstrom court further noted that individuals are not regarded as disabled 27 where the perceived “impairments [] are ‘transitory and minor,’” or have “an actual or 28 expected duration of six months or less.” Id. (citing 42 U.S.C. § 12102(3)(b)). Since

1 Covid-19 is generally transitory and consequently not a disability under the ADA, the 2 perception of having Covid-19 is likewise not a qualifying disability under the ADA. Id.
 3 The Lundstrom court consequently granted dismissal with prejudice under Rule 12(b)(6).
 4 Id. Here, Plaintiff has similarly failed to demonstrate he was regarded as having a 5 disability. Plaintiff only asserts conclusory allegations that “Plaintiff was perceived by 6 Defendant as suffering from a medical condition (Covid-19).” (Dkt. 1-1, at ¶ 15). At best, 7 such conclusory assertions merely allege perception of a transitory, mild illness for which 8 courts hold that there is not a qualifying disability under applicable law.

9 Plaintiff’s conclusory allegation that he was regarded as disabled is also insufficient 10 to establish claims under the FEHA. The instant lawsuit is similar to Roman, in which the 11 Roman court found the plaintiff could not demonstrate the defendant regarded the plaintiff 12 as disabled. Roman, 2022 WL 1541865, at *9. In Roman, the plaintiff failed to 13 demonstrate that the defendant employer acted in a way to indicate it believed the plaintiff’s 14 Covid-19 infection was potentially disabling. Id. Like the allegations in the instant lawsuit, 15 the defendant in Roman required the plaintiff take a Covid-19 test before returning to work.
 16 Id. The Roman court noted that the employer did not request any medical information that 17 would indicate the presence (or absence) of a potentially disabling effect from a Covid-19 18 infection. Id. Here, Plaintiff has failed to allege that Evans Adhesive acted in any way 19 indicating it believed Plaintiff had a Covid-19 infection that was potentially disabling.
 20 Further, Plaintiff’s Complaint does not allege Evans Adhesive sought any information from 21 Plaintiff that would indicate the presence or absence of a potentially disabling effect from 22 a Covid-19 infection. Plaintiff alleges that Evans Adhesive simply sought that Plaintiff 23 take a Covid-19 test and receive a negative result. (Dkt. 1-1, at ¶ 9.) Accordingly, Plaintiff 24 has failed to allege Evans Adhesive regarded Plaintiff as disabled within the meaning of 25 the FEHA.

26 Each of Plaintiff’s first through fifth causes of action are premised upon Plaintiff 27 being disabled under the FEHA and the ADA. Thus, Plaintiff cannot state any cause of 28 action under the FEHA or the ADA, and consequently Plaintiff’s first through fifth causes

1 of action should be dismissed with prejudice.

2       3. Due to Plaintiff's Lack of Allegations of Protected Activity, his 3 Retaliation Claim Fails.

4 Beyond conclusory assertions, Plaintiff's Complaint fails to allege that he engaged 5 in protected activity to sustain retaliation claims. To advance a claim for retaliation under 6 either the ADA or the FEHA, a plaintiff must allege: (1) he engaged in protected activity; 7 (2) he suffered an adverse employment action; and (3) there was a causal link between the 8 protected activity and the adverse employment action. Janvier v. City of Oakland, 2022
9 WL 14813900, at *8 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 25, 2022) (citations omitted); Lundstrom, 2022 WL 10 17330842, at *6 (citation omitted). To demonstrate protected activity, a plaintiff must 11 allege either that he challenged a violation of the law or requested a remedy authorized by 12 the law. Id. Beyond conclusory assertions that are insufficient to meet the federal pleading 13 standard, the Complaint contains no allegations that Plaintiff opposed any alleged 14 disability-based discrimination. Further, beyond conclusory assertions that are insufficient 15 to meet the federal pleading standard, the Complaint contains no allegations that Plaintiff 16 requested a disability accommodation of any kind from Evans Adhesive, whether in the 17 form of leave or any other type of disability accommodation. Overall, Plaintiff has not 18 described any situation concerning a disability as defined under applicable law, since, 19 again, Covid-19 infection is not a disability under the FEHA or the ADA. Thus, Plaintiff 20 has failed to allege the elements of a retaliation claim, and consequently it should be 21 dismissed with prejudice.

22       4. Plaintiff's Failure to Accommodate and Failure to Engage in 22 Interactive Process Claims Fail.

23 Plaintiff's Second and Third causes of action fail because Plaintiff does not allege 24 he identified any limitations to Evans Adhesive. To allege a claim for failure to 25 accommodate, a plaintiff must allege that he made his employer aware of an impairment 26 that limited the plaintiff in a major life activity. See King v. Permanente Medical Group, 27 Inc., No. 13-01560, 2013 WL 5305907, at *9 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 19, 2013) (citation omitted).
28 An allegation of a request to take time off is insufficient to plead a claim for failure to 1 accommodate. Id. (citation omitted). To assert a claim for failure to engage in the 2 interactive process, a plaintiff must allege that the defendant was aware of the need to 3 consider an accommodation. Id. (citation omitted). The employee bears the burden of 4 initiating the interactive process. Id. (citation omitted).

5 Here, Plaintiff's Complaint only contains conclusory assertions that he requested a 6 reasonable accommodation, without factual detail. Such conclusory allegations are 7 insufficient to meet the pleading standard. Further, Plaintiff's allegations that he requested 8 time off would not have been sufficient to indicate to Evans Adhesive that Plaintiff had 9 any limitation or that there was any need to consider an accommodation. Thus, in addition 10 to Plaintiff's failure to allege an actual or perceived disability, Plaintiff's Second and Third 11 causes of action also fail because Plaintiff does not allege he initiated any discussion with 12 Evans Adhesive regarding any purported limitation. See id. (granting 12(b)(6) dismissal 13 of failure to accommodate and failure to engage in interactive process claims). Such claims 14 should be dismissed with prejudice.

15 B. Plaintiff Fails to Plausibly Allege a Serious Health Condition, as Required 16 by the CFRA and the FMLA.

17 Despite Plaintiff's conclusory assertions that he "had qualifying serious health 18 conditions," Plaintiff's Complaint fails to allege a serious health condition as defined under 19 applicable law. Claims under both the CFRA and FMLA require a plaintiff to demonstrate 20 that he suffered from a serious health condition, as that term is defined under law. See King 21 2013 WL 5305907, at *5. Under both the CFRA and the FMLA, a plaintiff must 22 demonstrate an "illness" involving "inpatient care in a hospital, hospice, or residential 23 medical facility" or "continuing treatment by a health care provider" in order to allege a 24 "serious health condition." See id. (citing 29 U.S.C. § 2611; 2 C.C.R. § 11087(u)). To 25 make out a prima facie case for either retaliation or interference, a plaintiff must allege that 26 he was eligible for leave—that is, that either he or a qualifying family member had a serious 27 health condition.

28 Here, despite Plaintiff's attempt to base his sixth and seventh causes of action on the conclusory allegation that Plaintiff had a qualifying serious health condition, Plaintiff's Complaint fails to allege a serious health condition as defined under applicable law. (Dkt. 1-1, at ¶¶ 49, 56). Plaintiff does not allege that he was ever under inpatient care or continuing treatment. At any rate, such allegations would be illogical because Plaintiff never actually had a Covid-19 infection. (Id. at ¶ 12.) In the absence of a serious health condition, Plaintiff cannot fashion a CFRA or FMLA claim merely by alleging that Evans Adhesive interfered with sick leave or retaliated against Plaintiff for taking sick leave. See King, 2013 WL 5305907, at *5-6. Accordingly, Plaintiff cannot demonstrate a serious health condition. Thus, Plaintiff's sixth and seventh causes of action should be dismissed with prejudice. See id. (granting motion to dismiss CFRA and FMLA claims where plaintiff failed to demonstrate influenza and dehydration constituted serious health condition).

C. Plaintiff's Claim for Wrongful Termination in Violation of Public Policy is Derivative of Claims for Which Plaintiff has Failed to Allege Violations of Law.

Since Plaintiff has based his eighth cause of action on laws for which Plaintiff has failed to allege violations, his claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy also fails as a matter of law. Where a plaintiff premises a wrongful termination claim on laws for which the plaintiff failed to demonstrate violations, the wrongful termination claim should also be dismissed. See King, 2013 WL 5305907, at *7 (granting dismissal of wrongful termination claim under Rule 12(b)(6) where plaintiff failed to state a claim under CFRA and FMLA). Here, Plaintiff's eighth cause of action is premised upon and duplicative of laws for which Plaintiff has failed to state a claim—namely, the FEHA, the CFRA, and the FMLA. (Dkt. 1-1, at ¶¶ 63-64). As discussed at length above, Plaintiff has failed to demonstrate a violation of any of these laws. Accordingly, the Court should also dismiss with prejudice Plaintiff's claim for wrongful termination in violation of public policy.

V. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Defendant respectfully requests that the Court dismiss

1 with prejudice Plaintiff's Complaint.
